Work Pact Extended

Special To The Herald

NEW YORK — Aluminum Company of America and two major labor unions agreed Tuesday to extend existing labor contracts to assure continued production of aluminum after July 31, the expiration date of current contracts.

The agreements were made with the United Steelworkers of America which represents workers at Alcoa's Rockdale Works and the Aluminum Workers' International Union.

They extended the current contract until November 1 or for 30 days following a contract settlement in the steel industry, whichever is earlier.

If agreements on the new aluminum contracts are reached during the extension period, their provisions will become effective as of August 1.

A Rockdale Alcoa spokesman said Wednesday that any work stoppage would have affected about 750 workmen of the Rockdale Works United Steel Workers local.

Another 200 salaried employees at the huge Milam County plant would not be affected by union-company contracts.

M. M. Anderson, executive vice president of Alcoa, said that the extension agreement will assure continued employment for approximately 22,000 employees and will continue production of critically needed alumnium defense materials. The 21 Alcoa plants include: Mining, refining, smelting, and fabricating operations.

Aluminum - Steel Linked

Alcoa's settlements with the unions historically have followed the steel industry settlements, with aluminum contracts generally terminating 30 days after those in steel.

It was reasoned by Alcoa that no settlement agreements could be reached until the present steel dispute was settled, officials said.

The company and the unions will continue to bargain on non-economic contract provisions while negotiations on economic issues will be postponed.

The company's negotiations with the Aluminum Workers' International Union opened in Pittsburg June 24, and with the other two unions in New York July 7 and 8.

The Unions asked for a contract calling for new additional annual wage and benefit increases amounting to as much as prior three year agreements estimated at 45.6 cents per hour. The company responded with a proposal to extend the present contract with no further increase in wages, benefits, or the present 17-cent cost-of-living provision.

Federal Mediation

During the New York negotiations, meetings were held by Alcoa with representatives of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, which is under the direction of Joseph F. Finnegan. However, little progress toward an economic settlement was apparent. Alcoa has continued to express its belief that no increases in employment costs are warranted or justified at this time.

Similar extension agreements also were made today between four other aluminum producers and unions whose contracts expire July 31. Some 50,000 employees are represented in the over all negotiations, involving Alcoa, Reynolds Metals Co, Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp., Ormet Corp., and Olin-Mathieson Chemical Corp.

Ol' With FML 100

Ol' "kin chung" (Chinese title), "Gryllus domesticus (Latin term) or better known, Cricket (Texas pest) is back in town.

Sounding inside the car driving over him like a familiar cereal dying ("snap, crackle, pop") ol' Cricket is storming Cameron streets earlier this year.

What can we do about him? Live in total darkness, perhaps, and seal ourselves in until winter comes! But no, he would find some source of light and penetrate what might be considered impenetrable barriers: flaming moats of burning oil, musky clouds of DDT concentrate, "Scotch-taped" doors and windows or the like.

100—100—100

We've tried most of these technics and others less-inspired and equally inadequate.

There seems no solution to stopping this yearly horde of Texas-size parasites. We might, however, call in Uncle Sam and see if we couldn't loan Mr. Cricket and his clan a few million dollars to build a refuge away from civilization.

Can't you visualize a Cricket paradise? A blaze of lights, thousands of white walls to climb on, glowing radiant heat warming Cricket holes in the ground . . . all free of people and other cricket haters.

If I were a cricket, I would cherish the place and guard against the unwanted invasion of anti-cricket forces, by whatever name. Hey, Mr. Cricket, why don't you write your congressman? We just can't afford you.

100—100—100

Everybody knows crickets can't read, but I thought the brown pest running accross this piece of copy paper might get the idea by osmosis. One never knows.

But enough of crickets, let's talk about something important (no, not money, there are other things in life, like stocks, bonds, debentures)!

Let's talk about slogans. There happen to be a few new ones at hand.

Probably of interest is a cliche referring to the geology of the brain. It says:

"USE YOUR HEAD! It's the little things that count!"

Then, there's the by-word of every businessman watching a prospective customer looking over his wares:

"Don't just stand there. BUY SOMETHING!"

But the one that makes more sense than nonsense is the phrase below:

"It's nice to be important. It's important to be nice."

QUEEN DARLENE — Pert Darlene Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Moore, Cameron, accepts the queen's bouquet and crown as Miss Milam Farm Bureau of 1959. Master of Ceremonies Bill Hoover, Texas Farm Bureau, Waco, smiles approval at the announcement. Miss Moore will represent Milam County at the district queen contest sponsored by the Farm Bureau. She was named winner from a field of six entries for the title. Staffoto

Miss Moore Wins FB Queen Contest

Miss Darlene Moore, Cameron, was named queen of the 1959 Milam County Farm Bureau in a beauty contest Thursday night at the Methodist Recreation Hall.

A crowd of about 300 saw Miss Moore crowned queen of the annual Form Bureau contest by MFB Vice President V. L. Angel.

She triumphed over a handsome field of six Milam County entries.

Runner-up was Miss Jeannette Fuchs of Buckholts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Fuchs. Miss Moore is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Moore.

Other Contestants

Other contestants in the competition Thursday were: Miss Elizabeth Hromcik, Miss Sherial Jean Roesler, Miss Sharon Swanzy and Miss Stella Inge.

Master of ceremonies for the program was Bill Hoover, information director of the Texas Farm Bureau form Waco. Also on the evenings program was a line-up of local talent including Joe Heitmann, Vernie Miller, Rita Stewart, Linda Ethridge, 7-year-old Mike Hensley, Madeline McClaren, Pat and Nan McClaren and male quartet from Rockdale.

Last year's winner, Miss Carole Ann Heitman, was on hand to congratulate the new Miss Milam County Farm Bureau.

Miss Moore will compete in the District contest August 29 at the Hawn Hotel in Temple.

Chairman of the Queens Committee was Mrs. S. W. McClaren Jr. Committee members were Mrs. V. L. Augel, Mrs. T. R. Allen, Mrs. Robert Jungmann, Mrs. Charles Ed Hensley, Mrs. Johnny Fuchs, and Mrs Berenice Charles.

Judges for the contest were E Lightsey, Limestone County Farm Bureau President, Mrs. Dorothy Jones, Limestone County FB office secretary, and Mrs. Martha England of Groesbeck.

Last Rites Held For River Victim, Johnny Hoyte, 16

Funeral services were held this week in Rockdale for Johnny B. Hoyte, 16, Rockdale, who drowned in the San Gabriel River about 3 p.m. Monday.

Sheriff Carl Black reported that he joined Rockdale Fire Department personnel in a hunt that recovered the boy's body about 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Rockdale J. P. Leonard Allen held an inquest at mid-week, pronouncing the youth's death accidental drowning.

Black said the youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hoyte, Rockdale, was swimming in the San Gabriel River near the bridge of Tracy-Rockdale road.

He was swimming with a picnic group that included Sharon Noe, 15, Nancy Moore, 16, and Wayne Solomon, 11. Black said the group went swimming after a picnic at the river side.

The body was taken to Phillips-Luckey Funeral Home, Rockdale.

He was Milam County's first 1959 drowning fatality.

Going To Belton Game?

Jaycees Consider Train

Cameron Jaycees are considering a fourth annual football train to Belton October 16, Jaycee President John Schigut said today.

The Cameron Junior Chamber discussed feasibility of running a special train to Belton as in previous years when trains carrying upwards to 700 Cameron football fans went to Bellville, Brenham and Killeen.

"If we are going to run the train this fall," Schigut said, "we will have to sell advanced tickets only and must know well before train time how many fans will want to go."

The Bellville train last year carried about 600 fans to the first Bellville - Cameron football game in the schools' histories.

Work With Pagach

Jaycees are also working with Texas Road-e-o Champion William Pagach on the finer points of driving and testing prior to National Jaycee Road-e-o competition August 9 in Washington, D.C. He won over a field of 100 entries at Stephenville to claim the state title.

In other Jaycee activity, club members voted to complete installation of "Welcome, Cameron" signs with the co-operation of Texas Power & Light.

Schigut said at a recent meeting that an all-metal portable jail will be constructed to replace the one built by Cameron Jaycees for Western Week, July 13-18.

And Junior Chamber members discussed developing major scrapbook entries for state competition annually sponsored by the Texas Junior Chamber.

Wide Train Acceptance

The train program of prior Jaycee promotions has developed wide publicity and community participation.

Proceeds from the football train have been used in the annual Jaycee Santa Pals Christmas project, now heading for its fifth year in December.

Schigut said Jaycees would again stress the Santa Pals project in December and work on an improved Christmas music system in downtown Cameron and the 25-foot Christmas tree proect.

Chamber Hosts Directors, Wives At Barbecue

About 70 Cameron Chamber directors, their wives and guests gathered at a barbecue Tuesday night at Wilson-Ledbetter Park.

The barbecue was given by the Chamber and was the first informal gathering of its kind in recent Chamber years, according to President Milton J. Schiller.

It was the second barbecue in three weeks given by the Cameron Chamber.

Three weeks ago, the Chamber hosted city officials, state highway department dignitaries and directors following ribbon-cutting ceremonies on new City US 77.

C. B. Thames, district highway engineer, was special guest and told his audience that $2.4 millions in road funds is being spent in Milam County for current or pending projects.

Youth Hangs Self At Walker's Creek; Rites Held Monday

Self-inflicted death by hanging was the verdict returned by JP B. G. Rice in the death of Francis Lee Puckett, 18.

Puckett was found hanging from a tree in front of his home in the Walker's Creek community early Sunday.

Born in Dallas, he had lived in the Walker's Creek community for the past two years. He was a freshman student at Yoe High School.

Funeral services were held 2 p.m. Monday at Marek-Burns with the Rev. A. F. Russel officiating. Burial was in the Friendship Cemetery.

Survivors are his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Puckett of Cameron; his mother, Mrs. Margaret Freeman of Haskel; two brothers, Henry Wayne Puckett and Eugene Puckett, both of Cameron; three step-brothers, James Weaver, Allen Weaver and Elmer Weaver, all of Cameron; a step-sister, JoAnn Weaver of Cameron.

Collision Nets $165 Car Damage

A two-car collision 1:30 a.m. Saturday caused $165 to both vehicles at West Fourth and North Travis Sts.

Chief Chester Simons said that a 1959 Buick driven by Byron E. Bowen, 32, Amarillo, and a 1952 Chevrolet driven by Wyatt Miller, 70, Cameron, collided at the intersection.

Estimated damage to the Bowen vehicle was $100 while damage to the Miller vehicle was set at about $65, Simons said.

Miller was ticketed for driving without an operator's license, Simons said.

WEATHER NOTES

The weather man predicts that rising temperatures will reach the high 90's by Saturday and clear skies for the weekend. The official city rain guage measured .11 July 24 and .53 July 23.

Calendar Plays Trick

$ Day Next Friday

"First Friday" is a week late this month as July 31 falls on Friday, pushing the monthly Dollar Day event to Friday, August 7.

But Camreon merchants were clearing the way this week for a spectacular Dollar Day next week.

Cameron Chamber trade development committee leaders reminded Milam Countians to watch for the monthly promotion of savings for next week.

Manager Richard Moseley said some special things in savings ways are in store for county shoppers in Cameron next week.

He pointed out that Dollar Day is not the only day savings are available in Milam's county seat.

"Shoppers want competitive prices for savings in every line. And Cameron has them," Moseley said.

In the offing for budget — wise county buyers are back-to-school specials and close-outs on summer goods, said Moseley.

And remember Dollar Day in Cameron August 7, Friday, rather than tomorrow.

Recent Rains Boost Cotton, Other Growth

A "better than expected" maize crop is pouring into county grain centers this week as prospects for cotton and corn also rate highest in recent years.

County Agent J. D. Moore reported this week that recent rains, including the .69 of an inch Tuesday, boosted cotton prospects by saving smaller bolls.

But in maize production, the county seems to be heading for an outstanding year. C. L. Angell, Milam Grain Co. manager, said that his firm has loaded 40 cars of maize thus far, well ahead of the same point last year.

Next Weeks Heaviest

Angell said the next two weeks will be heaviest maize harvesting period of the year and probably the best in Milam County history.

Moore noted a "better than average" corn crop coming on the heels of the big maize turnout. He said that maize and corn harvest should keep county farmers busy through August.

He predicted a few bales of cotton picked during August, but most cotton will come in September production.

Maize storage and processing centers are working around the clock since mid-week dry weather cleared the way for further mechanical harvesting.

Grain experts say that the 2 inch -plus rains falling in the Milam area during the past 10 days has helped most of the late summer crops.

Big Melon Output

In truck crops, Rockdale truckers reported more than three million pounds of watermelons loaded out there in the past few weeks. Local truck crop growers estimated poundage approaching the Rockdale sales.

Watermelon harvesting should continue into August, Moore noted, with prospects for final county production figures still indefinite.

All tolled, county agriculture experts found the crop prospects at worst far superior to production during the past two years, and in the case of cotton, a completely different story.

This year cotton acreage exceeded 45,000 acres compared to about 27,000 in 1958. Total bale production was a record low of 8,000 bales.

Modernization Group Meets . . .

Chamber To View SA Stores

Members of the Cameron Chamber civic improvement committee Tuesday elected to take a tour of San Antonio store remodeling jobs and planned personal contacts with Cameron property owners.

Doc Harden's group met with Chamber Manager Richard Moseley Tuesday to study progress of the city's store front modernization program.

Harden said that about 20 personal letters had been sent to business property owners, seeking their interest and co-operation in Cameron's "Parade of Progress" boosted by special bank loan rates and builder-supplier discount program during the next six months.

He said that copies of the two Cameron banks loan proposals and builder-supplier pledges were enclosed with the letters.

Personal Contacts

In recounting other groundwork on the project, Moseley told the group that "personal contacts had been made with some dozen businessmen who have seen architect's sketches of suggested improvements."

Meanwhile actual remodeling continues at the offices of Dr. Gus Evans, Jr., Dr. George Bowman and two Texaco Service Stations while plans are underway for completion of front work at about four other downtown businesses.

The San Antonio tour will take committemen and businessmen considering remodeling to comparable improvement sites in that city, Moseley said. A tentative date has been set for August 11.

Harden said that personal contacts and letters to every business property owner, whether local or out-of-town, will be conducted by committeemen or an appointed representative who would act as liason between builders and property owners.

Moseley said that wide coverage of the Cameron modernization project brought editorials in several Central Texas newspapers and features in major Texas dailies.

Four Special Consultants

Thus far four specialty consulting firms have met with the Civic improvement committee, outlining sketches of business fronts and recommending procedures to make Cameron's modernization a success, Harden said.

Other remodeling work or building is going on at the Humble Bulk Station, W. Batte St., where a new front is being installed. Stanley Hughes, local contrator, has completed a new building on N. Fannin and plans to move there next week.

And Penny's, Cameron, is repainting the interior and exterior of the department store building.

Moseley also told the group that every recognized building and business authority noted improved property values and better business volume with building improvements.

Today's housewife has found the steam iron a wonderful addition to the labor-saving appliances which make her work easier. Steam irons eliminate most sprinkling chores, and enable the economy-minded woman to save money on dry cleaning and pressing many fabrics, such as woolens, that previously would have required a trip to the cleaners.

The first steam irons were heavy and cumbersome, and required distilled water. Now, however, the new irons can use regular tap water, and are much lighter in weight.

One of the newest steam and dry irons has an unusual feature — a scratch-resistant stainless steel soleplate—which makes ironing much easier. A scratched soleplate can make the iron "pull" and may actually damage delicate fabrics. The stainless soleplate will not scratch, even when the iron is pressed over buttons and zippers, and assures smoother ironing.

White Sox, Bears Hit Close Contest

The White Sox and the Bears played one of the most thrilling games of the Little League season Friday night with the Sox finally gaining victory in the eighth inning 18-16.

In the first game of the double header the Yankees took one over the Indians 11-4.

Leading the Sox attack in the second game was Paul Edmunds, Mees, and Vogelsang.

Score of the contest was 2-2 after the first inning, 4-2, in favor of the Bears after the second. The Bears picked up 7 more in the third to the Sox's 3 to make it 11-5.

The Bears clipped another one in the fourth and 2 in the fifth. In the bottom of the fifth the Sox started coming back picking up 6 runs. The Bears got another in the sixth persumably closing the game up, however the Bears added 4 more to their tally in the bottomb half of the inning to tie it up 15-15 and send the game into extra innings.

Each team collected one in the seventh, The Bears got another in the eighth. In the bottom of the eighth Sox came through with 2 runs to take the game on hits by Edmunds and Mitchell, Mees and Humble walked to put the protinal runs on base.

Richard Mosely, Bollinger and J. McKinney led the losers at bat.

In the first game of the twin bill Zalesky led the Yankees to an 11-4 win over the Indians. Zalesky was 4 for 4 and scored 4 times.

Bobby Nelson was the winning pitcher and helped his own cause by slamming a homerun and triple in his 3 times at bat. Losing hurler was Bryan.

The Yanks out hit the Tribe 15-11. Bollinger led the loser at bat going 2-3.

Tomasek Wins Top Award For Gilt Management

By Robert W. Hoerman,
Ass't County Agent

Milam county 4-H members and adult leaders held their swine tour Monday. Roy Tomasek won a fifty pound sack of feed for the most outstanding job of management. Winning second place and a fifty pound sack of feed was Larry Jungmann.

Feed was donated by Feeders Supply with Joe Walzel, store representative, acting as judge.

Other 4-H members owning Sears gilts, that were visited were Douglas McFarland, Tommie Morgan, Nancy Baggett, Penny Graves, Roy Tomasek, Louis Rozner, and Joe Michael Brady.

Farm Bureau gilts visited were owned by Royce and Delmer Glaser.

4-H RECORDS

Milam county 4-H records are due in the county agents office, August 15. Working on record keeping is training the 4-H club member needs for later business life. Every profitable business is backed by good record keeping.

Farming is becoming more highly technical and profits will be based on good management. Analyzing your record will help to determine whether to continue or discontinue a certain phase of your operation based on profit or loss.

4-H boys and girls may get help on their record book from the county agents office.

Temporary Summer Pastures

Temporary summer pastures should be grazed so native grass will not be over grazed. If there is plenty native grass, put the summer pasture in bales. A farmer has never lost money when he had a good supply of feed on hand.

Careless Hauling Of Livestock Can Cost Big Losses

COLLEGE STATION — Careless hauling and handling of livestock can cost producers a lot of money, says U. D. Thompson, extension animal husbandman. A recent USDA study shows the loss from careless hauling of livestock amounts to about $100 million annually for the nation.

Four major causes account for most of this loss, says Thompson.

First, almost a fourth of all trucks hauled either too many or too few livestock. Animals shouldn't be crowded but the load needs to be fairly snug to avoid shifting. Marketing agencies and most truckers have charts which tell how to load according to type of animal and available floor space.

Second, only half of the loads were partitioned by type of animal. Horned cattle were seldom partitioned resulting in much bruising and crippling. Partitions need to be put up between animals of different sizes and types, the husbandman says.

Third, almost 30 percent of the trucks had little or no bedding, leaving the danger of animals slipping or falling. Floors need to be "slip-proofed" with sand, shavings or sawdust, and a straw covering should be used to absorb moisture.

And fourth, the animals weren't handled properly when loaded and unloaded. Some truckers and farmers too-used clubs, shovels and sticks. More than half the hogs and a fourth the cattle were mishandled as a result. Thompson says the only proper way to urge livestock along is with canvas slappers or electric prods, as clubs will injure the flesh.

Write your own PRESCRIPTION?

The days of the medicine man are over. Every wise person knows there is no 'cure-all' remedy that will magically relieve any pain or disorder. Still, many people persist in using old-fashioned home remedies that seem to give temporary relief, yet do not really effect a cure. Don't live in the dark ages. At the first sign of discomfort, consult your physician, who is thoroughly qualified to diagnose your illness. And when he gives you that important prescription, bring it to our pharmacist for accurate, scientific compounding.

New Guns On The Market

By Vern Sanford

It won't be long before we start popping caps at wild game. So, it's not too early to begin thinking about our guns and ammunition.

There will be several new guns on the market this year. Most important right now, however, is for us to double check the guns we already own.

I was at a friend's house the other night and he remarked that he hadn't touched his gun since he returned from a duck hunt in December.

"I have a dandy sheep-lined case," he said. "I just store my gun in it. There is enough oil in the fleece to give it protection."

I wanted to bet him how wrong he was. But that would have been taking money too easy. However, at my suggestion he went to the closet and opened the case. He was aghast at the condition of his gun. It was flecked all over with minute rust particles.

Here's what had happened. He put the gun in the case while the gun was still damp; the wool held the dampness; rust began to form on the metal parts. Now the gun no longer looks like a brand new one.

This incident is being passed on to you, with the hope that you took time to clean your gun after the last hunt. Also that you did not leave it stored in some tight case where it couldn't get plenty of air. That is dangerous.

This also is a good time of the year to have any repairs taken care of. Most fellows who have guns with cracked stocks, loose screws, or something else wrong, will wait until three days before the season opens to have repairs made. By that time the gunshops already are rushed with work. Result is a hurried job — if not too late entirely. It's wise to have these matters tended to early.

We'll get some new guns this year, too. In fact, Remington already has come out with an eye-opener for those who take a second look at beauty.

The better guns are appearing with "sun grain" in the stocks, and gold finished parts, such as bolts and trigger guards. They are most attractive!

Remington also has announced a new 12-gauge Auto-master, which retails for just slightly over $100. It is a quick change barrel, light weight, reduced recoil gun made to a three-shot capacity.

Earlier in the year Remington produced a new shotgun barrell with rifle shots. It is available at present on the models 870, 11-48 & the Sportsman 58. This barrel is especially adapted to the rifled slugs and should be very deadly at close range.

Mossberg will offer a new gun this fall. It will be a lever action 22. It's in response to the demand created by westerns, wherein lever actions have been glorified.

At the present time, Marlin is the only manufacturer of a lever action 22. This has been a very famous and accurate little gun for years.

It's too bad that one of these companies doesn't make a lever action for the 22 hornet. This would be an ideal varmint gun, with so much more authority than the regular 22 long rifle. Some day perhaps we'll get it!

It also will interest coming season shooters that there is every indication of another bountiful crop of both dove and quail this year. A trip across Texas reveals that there is an excellent seed crop. Doves have moved back in by the thousands.

A trip through the Lower Valley is convincing that whitewinged doves have a good chance this year. Biologists already have predicted a good crop of animals.

Shooters also will get their chances at more resorts this year, not only in Texas, but across the nation. These shooting resorts are increasing in popularity every season. There are indications that the number in Texas this year will almost double.

Texas, along with other states, is passing helpful legislation so that landowners can operate these resort areas in a practical manner and at a profit. After all, if there is no profit, they can't afford to stay in business. If they can't stay in business, the shooters will lose, because there will be fewer places to hunt.

The shooting resort business has grown so in Illinois that they have organized a Shooting Preserve Association. This group of resort owners then sets up uniform standards for its members to follow. The new standards are aimed primarily at the operators, to assist them in keeping up good qualities of sportsmanship.

They have set up rules which will permit only full-plumaged birds more than 14 weeks of age to be released. They should be capable of sustained flight similar to that of wild birds.

YOU ENJOY LIFE MORE THAN EVER BEFORE . . . ELECTRICALLY

In days gone by, the afternoon baseball game was one of the few forms of recreation. But, today, thanks to electricity, there is a multitude of recreational activities for all to enjoy.

Not only has electricity enabled baseball and other games to be played at night, but it brings the games right into the home through radio and television. This is just one of the many ways in which we live better electrically.

Texas Power & Light Company, a business-managed, tax-paying public utility (more than 25% of all TP&L revenue goes for taxes) pledges continued dependable electric service to its customers at the lowest possible cost. In fact, since 1936, while the cost of living has risen 108%, the average unit cost for TP&L residential electricity has gone down 43%.

TP&L's expansion through the years has been carried on entirely with private capital, providing an example of why it is completely unnecessary to spend your tax money for electric power development by government-sponsored agencies which are financed or subsidized with your tax dollars.

Q: "Are blackheads permanent, or is there any way of getting rid of them?"

A: You should be able to get rid of existing blackheads and prevent others from developing if you follow a deep-cleansing skin treatment each night before you go to bed.

(1) - Soak a washcloth in hot water and press it against your face a few seconds.

(2) - Apply cold cream over your entire face and work it into your warm, moist skin with your hands.

(3) - Remove the cream with clean tissues. If the tissues look pretty gray after each wipe, give your skin a second coat of cold cream - then remove this with tissues, too.

(4) - Wash your face with soap and water. Rinse thoroughly, making sure there aren't any suds left on your skin - now pat dry with a towel.

With just a little over a month left until school opens Cameron is still short of two athletic coaches. A coach is needed for the B and C teams.

Football practice is scheduled to start on the 17th of August under Jim Speer.

The Yoemen have lost 10 lettermen from last year's crop but will have lettermen returning to the team.

Among standouts coming back will be Senior Joe Humplik at tackle, tackle James Fontaine, fullback Ed Lierman, halfback Carrol Fikes, and sophmore tackle Ernest Bayer.

VOS

With baseball season practically at an end most Babe Ruth League players will lay aside their gloves and don track equipment for a couple of weeks

Even though gridiron practice doesn't actually begin until the August 17 a number of the boys will take it upon themselves to keep in shape during baseball and football.

VOS

There is a possibility that Quarterback Charles Hollas will be lost to the Yoemen this year.

Hollas suffered a dislocated shoulder two years ago which has never completely healed. Football action could injure the shoulder permanently.

Hays Reports Progress

Public Aid Asked In Mail Campaign

Postmaster John R. Hays reports that good progress is being made in the Post Office Department's intensified campaign against obscene mail. "But the problem is so large and complex," says Postmaster Hays, that significant and lasting relief will require full cooperation from the public."

A million American boys and girls of high school and junior high school age may receive obscene literature and pictures in the mail this year even though they neither wanted nor solicited them. "Reports which have come to my office from angry parents make it quite plain," says Postmaster Hays, "that many children in the Cameron area are unwittingly being carried on lists by mail order pornographic houses to solicite sales of their filthy materials."

The smut peddlers, heavy users of first class mail which is not subject to inspection by postal authorities, have developed clever means of adding teenagers to their mailinglists. They clip names from high shcool annuals, and they buy them from legitimate mail-order houses dealing in items of interest to kids. They even advertise acceptance children's merchandise at bargain prices to build up their lists. It is easy to get on a list, but nearly impossible to get off one.

In 1865 Congress made it a federal offense to mail obscene matter. The Post Office Department has lent its fullest support to such legislation, but commercialized pornorgraphy has continued to grow. It has developed considerably in just the past 5 years, and the Post Office Department predicts that unless a concerted nationwide war is waged against it, it will increase substantially again over the next 5 years.

Until recently the Post Office Department encountered great difficulty in bringing these racketeers to bay because the Federal laws permit prosecution only in the courts at the place of mailing. In response to urging by the Post Office Department and pleas from aroused churches, Civic, and other groups over the country, the 85th Congress passed legislation which permits prosecution not only at the point of mailing, but in communities where the materials are received. Postmaster General Summerfield is determined to use this new legal weapon to the fullest extent possible.

"The parents of America are the key to effective action against dealers in filth," says Postmaster Hays. All parents are therefore urged to note the mails received at their homes, preserve any obscene material and the envelope it arrives in, and deliver it in person or by mail to the local postmaster.

"Effective action can and will be taken when evidence is received anywhere that the laws apply to the mailing of pornographic materials have been violated," says Postmaster Hays. In proof of this, the Post Office Department has completed some 14,000 separate investigations in the past year, almost 2-3 of them based on complaints from indignant parents.

Fish Stocking Compared To Farm Products

Hatching and raising fish for stocking is similar to planting and raising farm products for the market, according to the Director of Engineering, Texas Game and Fish Commission.

"Some years we raise large quantities of fish, and others we don't do so well," said the director. "It all depends on the weather, insects, diseases, and other factors nearly like those facing the farmer each year."

Various types of insects attack the eggs during spawning, many destroy fry before they can grow, and others cause diseases later after the fish are old enough for stocking.

When insects appear in destructive numbers, fish hatchery attendants treat the water with a mixture of gasoline, kerosene, and oil, which forms a surface coating. The attacking insects require oxygen. When they surface the mixture enters their respiratory system and kills them.

Wheather also can be very destructive to fish hatching. When the water temperature gets too low, the male parent sometimes leaves the nest. Since he is needed to protect and fan the eggs, his departure means a loss of eggs. Of course, if the water gets too low, the eggs will freeze.

Like the farmer, the fish hatchery people never know what kind of a crop they will produce until the harvest is ready for stocking ponds and lakes across Texas.

Siebman Reports US Bond Sales Up For Month

Henry Siebman chairman of Milam County's Savings Bonds Committee, reports that June bond sales in Texas were 11.4% grater than May sales. Bond sales in Milam county totaled $254,578 for the first half of 1959. This represents 66.1% of the year's goal for the county.

Sales in Texas for the first half of 1959 were $81,960,468 or 44.9% of the year's goal of $182.5 milloin.

"The fine sales increase shown in June points up the fact that thousands of Texans are interested in an investment where their principal and interest are fully guaranteed by the U. S. Treasury Department. I believe strongly in the bond slogan 'Part of Every American's Savings Belongs in Savings Bonds' " Siebman stated. "More Texans should take part in the Savings Bonds program, not only as a tangible expression of patriotism, but as a practical way of saving for future personal security," chairman Siebman concludede.

Half Way Retrospect . . .

The half-way point in the calendar year is past and Cameron and Milam County can recount achievements in road and street improvements.

It is a good record thus far.

About 10 county road and state-federal highway projects are underway or nearing completion in Milam County. A noticeable improvement has been made in the grade condition of county unsurfaced roads.

District Highway Engineer C. B. Thames told Cameron Chamber and other city leaders two weeks ago that about $2.4 millions in road construction will be completed in Milam County during the next year, including current projects and projected contracts.

He pointed out that this total is about one-seventh of his current road budget for the Bryan district, certainly an indication that big things are happening in Milam road building.

In Cameron, the city is about to complete its first major step in street construction with paving of E. 10th St. and 12 blocks of heavily traveled North Jackson.

Officials are following a master plan designed by the city planning commission last November. In line with this street construction is the current evaluation of the city's sewerline system by consulting engineers. Here again, an up-dated master plan will give Cameron a guide for careful, thorough sewerline construction.

Key factor in both county and city improvements has been the inter-related co-operation of four agencies of government or free enterprise: the State Highway Department, the county commission, the Cameron Chamber of Commerce and the Cameron City Council. Each agency has improved working relationships with the others that have produced results.

City officials are working out a 1959-60 budget with heavy appropriations from surplus funds for an expanded city street and sewerline program. It can be implemented upon approval October 1.

And the county, according to both highway and county officials, is booked solid for road construction well into 1960. The only problem will be keeping county funds available for right-of-way.

The mark of responsible civic growth is planning. And it seems the record would show careful application has brought both Cameron and Milam County drive-way improvements in a comparatively short time.

The final test of these combined successes has been administered and approved by residents of both Cameron and Milam. It has been through their considerable co-operation that we are seeing these improvements.

The second half of 1959 should see a continuation of road construction that will make Milam County and Cameron better places to live and work.

The Qualitative Approach . . .

A new concept is sweeping the horizon of about every interest group in the U. S. . . . be they political, civic, business, union, military or educational.

It is "qualitative over quantitative development of a system."

A more sophisticated United States is outgrowing the vague "improve the group" principle, exchanging it for a drive for quality performance of individuals. It is a return, we hope, to the very basis of Americanism, accomplishment by achievement, not legislation.

Bounding population growth has stunted the practicality of mass development. We are seeing keen interest, based on practical need, for superior performance rather than mass mediocrity.

It took "sputnik" and "lunik" to turn our heads. The competition for inter-planetary superiority wrought a revolution in our educational thinking and planning. Now Americans are conscious of learning fundamentals of academics and sciences along with development of a good citizen.

And just last week an eminent history professor at Harvard, himself a Democrat, suggested that liberal spending of dollars and liberal Democratic policy may be passe. He was hinting at qualitative politics in line with changing interests and values of the American people.

Small cities, like Cameron, are awakening to their potential as city dwellers move almost en masse to the suburbs and nearby small communities. America's small town is learning there is success in qualitative development as well as in wide-open growth.

These things had to happen. An organization or a wide system by its very size has to pass the point of diminishing return. The old economic axiom says that continued expansion beyond an optimum point will produce a continually diminishing return.

Schools, businesses, cities and governments can grow only so large in size and thinking. Then they must sub-divide or fail.

And before this point is reached, we see in most cases a return to individual merit rather than group therapy.

Capitol Report

Tax Problems In Adjoining States

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — Tired reading about the Texas legislature?

Well — my friend — you're not alone. Seems like most everybody feels that way — including many members of the House and Senate.

Okay, then, for a little diversion let's look north and see what has been going on in our neighboring states.

Oklahoma's legislators also faced a financial crisis. How did they meet it? First they cut some needless expenses, eliminated waste and duplication. Then they appropriated for 18 months instead of 24. But they did not increase any existing taxes. Fortunately for them, financially at least, Oklahoma voted in liquor and they now have some brand new tax income — or will very, very soon.

Oklahoma, it must be remembered, has a state income tax and an across-the-board two per cent sales tax - two things Texas doesn't have.

Putting the state in a better light, collection-wise, Oklahoma legislators swiped Uncle Sam's idea and added a state withholding tax. This to assure more collections from their income tax.

During the past six months there has been talk of a unicameral legislature, like Nebraska's. Also there has been talk of a special election to let the public decide on taxes — especially sales taxes. Some officials feel that the public, if it had its say today, would vote for a sales tax — and thus take the monkey off the backs of the legislators. But so far no one has had the courage to introduce such a measure.

Soundings by the press indicate that a sales tax might very well be acceptable to the people — that the people fully realize the dilemma — that they at least would go along with a reasonable sales tax, although they might be firmly opposed to an income tax.

Maybe a special election on the subject of a sales tax is the answer. At least the public would have a say in the matter and our senators and representatives would not have to face the criticism they now fear.

Wish somebody had thought of that earlier, don't you? An election could have been held on the subject at much less expense than that incurred in financing three additional special sessions, all of which actually centered around that very topic.

New Buildings

While the Senate and House are busy trying to find a way to finance the state's future operations,

Six months of continuous sessions has just been ended in the Sooner state. Although their financial problems are solved for the next eighteen months, after that a sizeable hike in taxes is expected.

Texas legislators have met almost continuously since January 13. They may even have to go into a fourth special session. But if they do, they will earn the wrath of the old folks whose pensions stop in mid-August unless a sizeable tax bill is enacted. There is no doubt about it in Texas, the people are disgusted. And the legislators are disturbed.

There is much talk that many of them will not be re-elected. Undoubtedly there are some who don't ever want to return to the legislative halls.

Many of the senators and representatives have tried hard to formulate a tax program that would care for the needs of the state. Their efforts have been stymied.

governmental buildings still are being erected around the Capitol. In fact, they are beginning to dwarf the major edifice.

Occupancy of the first of these buildings to be completed has just been made by the Texas Employment Commission. Its six hundred employes are now housed in the $2,400,000 structure.

A total of 11,000 pieces of office equipment were moved out of eleven downtown Austin locations into the new six-story building.

TEC began some 24 years ago with a staff of 25 employes in the state headquarters and 50 local offices. Now employed are 2,300 persons, with 93 local offices throughout the state.

Governor Signs Bills

A bill by state Senator Bill Fly extending the time for removol of the offices of the State Board of Insurance from the International Life Building in Austin has been signed by Gov. Price Daniel.

The Commission rents some ten floors of the building. However, the rent is paid by the various insurance companies in Texas.

Earlier Senator Fly secured passage of a bill calling for the removal of the Insurance Commission from that building and the construction of its own office headquarters. Work has not yet been begun on the new building.

The Little River Philosopher

Is Up In Arms Over High Faulting View Of What Laziness Consists Of

Dear editar:

One of the troubles with the world today is that it has to have an explanation for everything.

You take laziness. You'd think the word lazy means what it says just lazy. But psychologists have to go into a long rigamarole explaining the deep psychological causes of it.

For example, I read in a newspaper yesterday afternoon while I was resting under a shade tree out here on my Johnson grass farm — well, technically I wasn't resting, at least I hadn't done anything to make me tired, what I was doing was just sitting there because I wanted to — where a prominent British surgeon has been analyzing laziness. According to him, "laziness implies a lot of intelligence. It is the normal, healthy attitude of a man with nothing to do. We should study its techniques."

This is what I'm talking about. Thunder, laziness doesn't imply a lot of intelligence, you can be lazy whether you've got any sense or not. You can be dumb and be lazy, and you can be intelligent and be lazy. Some of the busiest people I know ain't very bright, and some of the brightest people I know ain't very busy.

And as for it's being a "normal, healthy attitude of a man with nothing to do," I can tell you real quick that British surgeon doesn't know the first thing about laziness. Anybody can be lazy if he hasn't got anything to do. The real test of laziness comes when you can practice it when you've got plenty to do, when you're snowed under, when you're three weeks behind with your plowing and the work is stacking up and you're able to look at your tractor with great moral strength of character and pick up your fishing pole and head for the river or the lake. Furthermore, if while you're fishing you're being gnawed by your conscience, if you keep thinking you ought to be back on your tractor going up one row and down another contributing to the surplus, you ain't really practicing laziness. Laziness is something very few people have the strength of character to acquire.

I'm not a complete success at it yet, but I'm working on it. It's not something you acquire in one week. It takes years.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

More Than $2,000 To Be Awarded In VFW Essay Contest

The opening of its 25th annual National High School Essay Contest was announced today by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The topic will be "Civil Defense — An American Tradition."

Students in all public, private and parochial high schools are eligible to enter the contest. National prizes are: First, $1,000 cash; second $500; third $250; and fourth, $100; plus 20 cash honorable mention awards. In addition, the federal Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization will award a $100 U. S. Savings Bond to the first-place winner in each state. State and local contest winners also receive additional Auxiliary awards which vary with the community.

Further information on the 1959 -60 contest may be obtained from local Auxiliary unit, or from the Essay Department, V. F. W. Auxiliary, 406 West 34th Street, Kansas City 11, Mo.

Naval Reserve Seeks Former Shipfitters

Former navy shipfitters and reservists with that rating from the Cameron area are needed to train new recruits at the Waco Naval Reserve Surface Division.

By participating in reserve activities, Navy veterans get a full day's pay for each Wednesday night drill, opportunities for promotion, retirement benefits and full pay for two-week training cruises each year.

Hot Dog!

Be you six or sixty the news that franks are on the Cookout bill of fare is almost sure to bring a grin of anticipation. But just wait until you taste them with this good, new and so—easy-to-make relish!

Hot Dog Relish

2 cups chopped ripe tomato
2 cups chopped green tomato
2 cups chopped cucumber
1 cup chopped onion
1 sweet red pepper
1 teaspoon celery seed
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1½ cups vinegar

Wash and drain vegetables. Scald, core, and peel ripe tomatoes. Core but do not peel green tomatoes. Cut blossom and stem ends from peppers; discard seed. Peel onion. Chop vegetables and squeeze to remove juice—saves cooking time.

Mix all ingredients and cook until the liquid part is about as thick as Chili Sauce. Taste and add more seasoning if desired. Watch it! If too highly seasoned the relish will mask rather than enhance the flavor of frankfurters and wieners. Pour boiling hot relish into hot fruit jar. Put dome lid on jar; screw band tight.

Austin Firm Wins Low Bid On FM 908

A contract for 6.2 miles of construction on Farm-to-Market Highway 908 in Milam and Burleson County has been awarded to an Austin firm, it was announced this week by the State Highway Commission.

Normon L. Larson submitted the low bid of $95,595.41 on the project. Construction of grading, structures, base and surfacing from 4.1 miles south of Rockdale, southeast to FM 908 near Blackjack is expected to take 150 working days, according to C. B. Thames, District Highway Engineer at Bryan.

Carol D. Zeigler, Resident Engineer at Hearne will be in active charge of the project while it is under construction.

State Bar President Appoints Prescott To Grievance Committee

A. J. Folley of Amarillo, president of the Texas State Bar, Tuesday named five area attorneys to the Bar's disciplinary committees for the 11th Congressional District.

Three-year appointments to the grievance committee included Hilton H. Howell, Waco; George H. Brooks, Meridian; Jack W. Prescott, Cameron; and Henry Taylor, Sr., Temple.

Grievance prosecuting committee appointments, also for three years, included District Attorney Raymond Thornton of Belton.

W. C. Haley of Waco, Bar director for the 11th District, who recommended the appointments, will serve as ex-officio member of both committees. In addition to these duties, Folley appointed Haley advisor to the Bar's committee on state courts housing.

McAtee At Magnolia Sales Training Center

H. E. McAtee, Dealer at the Mobil Service Station, 4th at Travis, is receiving special training in the latest methods of service station operation at the Magnolia Petroleum Company's Sales Development Center in Houston.

The two weeks of training will provide Mr. McAtee with current information on design changes and requirements for late-model cars, products, all car services, and service station management.

Billie Jeff Prescott, who is employed in Houston, spent last weekend here with his family.

Adds Cement Drive

Modern Station For Mack's Oil

Mack's Oil Company is open for business again at their highway 77 and 36 service station location after completing improvements which included a cement driveway and modernization of retail gasoline pump and service area.

In addition to the outside work done, A. W. McCullin, owner, recently remodeled the company offices as part of a continuing effort to keep facilities of Mack's Oil Company up to the latest in motorists requirements in an auto service center.

McCullin, also Phillips petroleum distributor in Milam, Burleson and Lee counties, knows that top-notch service is what customers want. And that is what they get at his Cameron, Rockdale and Caldwell service sations.

The Cameron station features Phillips petroleum products including diesel fuel, motor oils and gasoline. They also sell Lee Tires, the famous gates belts, Purolator oil filters and Champion sparkplugs, all well known brand items.

"You will find the complete service at Mack's 66 in Cameron" McCullin says. "And the same efficient, courteous Phillips 66 service awaits you at the Rockdale and Caldwell stations."

A versatile man in petroleum products and public service, McCullin also buys and sells crude oil in the Minerva field in Milam County. In fact, he points out that he began working in the oil business in Minerva in 1931, moving to Cameron in 1939.

County Agent Says:

Make Plans For Winter Pastures

By J. D. Moore
County Agent

Temporary pastures are the most dependable source of grazing in late fall, winter and early spring. Proper seed-bed preparation and fertilization are important. Good grazing can make a tremendous difference in the feed bill.

A&M College Notes

Rains Help Crops, Lawns, Pastures

Rains last week were generally good and helped most crops, home lawns and pastures. Cotton was at a critical stage and received a boost where as much as one to two inches of rain fell.

Most cotton plants were heavily fruited with grown bolls on the lower part of the plant and marble size bolls on the upper part.

With high temperatures, surface moisture was getting short and within a few days cotton plants would have "shedded" off the smaller bolls leaving only the larger bolls to mature. For this reason the rain will help most of the cotton crop.

The rains came too late to cause any widespread build up of insects. The older cotton is maturing at a rapid rate and most of the insect damage will be to the late planted cotton.

A "better than expected" maize crop is ready for harvest with some upland hybrid maize yielding 4,000 pounds per acre. The maize harvest will get into full swing next week if dry, hot weather continues. If the super powered, self-propelled highly efficient combines once get rolling, maize harvest is an interesting and short-lived operation.

Following the maize harvest, a better than average corn crop will be ready for harvest. These two farm operations, including the stalk shredding, should keep farmers busy through most of August.

A few bales of cotton will be picked during August but most of the cotton harvest will get underway during September.

Watermelon harvest has reached its peak but should continue into early August.

The majority of the silage crops are cut and stored. Reserve feed safely stored in a good silo is the stockmens best insurance to be ahead next year.

We are in the process of filling silos with Tracy and Atlas sorghum harvested with the OLDEST seeds in the soft dough stage and the moisture from 65 to 70 per cent. We are putting 400 tons in concrete uprights, 600 tons in a dirt trench to be covered with 6 mil, black plastic, and 120 tons in a stack on a concrete slab (16 ft by 60 ft) with no sides, but the silage will be covered with plastic. The stack silo will be used for research in self feeding using different designs of feeding gates. Experience to date indicates cows silo than from the deeper concrete trenches because the silage is not packed as tightly.

Brucellosis Problem

Infected cattle suffer approximately a 20 per cent reduction in milk production; calve, on an average, once every 18 months; and resulting abortions, sterility and difficult breeders increase replacement needs by 30 per cent. Man, by drinking unpasteurized milk from infected animals or by handling infected animals without proper sanitation, may become infected with undulatn fever.

Using the milk ring test, Texas Livestock sanitary officials found 79 per cent of the 2,551 dairy herds surveyed showing evidence of the disease. While 18 states and one-half of the 3,152 counties in the United States are currently modified certified brucellosis areas, Texas has only 3 counties (Jeff Davis, Presidio and Brewster) of this status. we now have the tools to get the job done. The question is—What are we going to do about it

Add Nitrogen

The equivalent of 40 to 60 pounds of nitrogen added to maize stubble after shredding will help decompose stalks and add needed nitrogen back to the soil for a better crop next year.

Added nitrogen increased crop yields during 1959 crop season on all crops.

Controlling Weeds

It is too late in the year to expect effective results from fertilizing and controlling weeds in farm ponds, says Ed Cooper, extension wildlife specialist. Either practice, if carried out during late summer, will likely result in oxygen depletion and the loss of fish in the treated pond.

Rotate Vegetable Crops

Growers who intend to remain in the vegetable business and compete in the present and future marketing system should plan their production program to obtain the best possible yields of quality produce. Planting vegetable crops in a 3 or more year rotation plan is a standard practice but is perhaps more important today than ever before since increases in yield and improved in quality may mean the difference in profit and loss.

Perhaps the greatest benefit in the rotation plan is in reducing the losses from diseases. The most notable are the soil deseases; however, a build-up of foliage diseases carried over from year to year in the soil or plan residue can build up.

The problem of nematodes is becoming more severe each year throughout vegetable growing areas of Texas. The best control for nematodes is prevention However, once nematodes are present, build ups can be prevented by a rotation program with crops that are not specific hosts of the nematodes.

Vegetables vary considerably in rooting and absorption of water and minerals. Certain vegetables are very shallow rooted with fibrous rooting systems. Others are intermediate, while still others have tremendous tap root systems and may send lateral roots several feet from the base of the plants. Each kind of plant may absorb minerals in different ratios and quantities. A rotation program should be so planned that vegetables with the same type rooting systems do not follow each other in rotation. For example, a deep-rooting vegetable may follow a shallow, fibrous rooting kind. North Texas potato growers have found that potatoes following small grain do better than when following cotton.

Planning a three or more year rotation program with vegetable crops also allows growers an opportunity to include soil-improving crops and summer following of land. The best advice to any vegetable grower is to PLAN AHEAD and have his soil in the best possible condition for a specific crop.

Control of Sprouting

Millions of bushels of Irish potatoes, onions and sweet potatoes are lost each year from sprouting in storage. By holding storage temperatures below 40 degrees F. little sprout growth will occur on Irish potatoes or onions. In the same manner, a storage temperature of 55-60 degrees F. will hold sweet potatoes in optimum condition for several months.

Under conditions of nonrefrigerated common storgae, it is impossible to maintain such temperatures throughout the storage season. Consequently, sprouting, shriveling and shrinkage of the stored product inevitably occur.

Even though sprouting may be controlled by storage temperatures below 40 degrees F., such treatment is not always desirable. The best cooking quality of Irish potatoes is obtained when storage temperatures are above 40 degrees F. Temperatures below 40 degrees cause objectionable discolorations in dehydrated potatoes and the undesirable brown color in potato chips.

The discovery that chemical growth regulators will affect the dormancy of plants at relatively high storage temperatures has led to important practical applications.

For the past several years, maleic hydrazide (MH 40) has been used to prevent sprouting in stored Irish potatoes and onions. The effective treatment consists of a single preharvest spray of maleic hydrazide to the leaves of the growing plant.

To control the storage sprouting of onions, apply 5 pounds of MH 40 in 100 - 150 gallons of water per acre 2 to 3 weeks before harvest when bulbs are mature and tops begin to fall over but are still green. To control sprouting of Irish potatoes in storage, apply 7 pounds of MH 40 in 100-150 gallons of water per acre 4 to 6 weeks before harvest.

Livestock Auction Market Operators To Meet At A&M

COLLEGE STATION—The Texas Livestock Auction Market Operators Conference will be held at Texas A & M College on Sunday, August 9. The program for this third annual conference will feature topics of vital interest to every livestock market operator, said Dr. Jarvis E. Miller of A&M's Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology and conference chairman.

Subjects to be discussed will include "The Livestock Outlook; Relating Packers and Stockyard Regulations to Your Operations; Enforcing the P. & S. Act in Texas; How the Market Inspection Law Effects You; Effects of the Animal Health Laws on Your Customers; Education Programs to Help Your Customers; Causes of Livestock Losses and Their Prevention; New Ideas in Facilities; Improving Your Advertising and Promotion Practices; and Exploring the Potential for Special Sales."

Miller said the program subjects will be handled by an outstanding group of speakers who are recognized as authorities in their respective fields.

The conference is sponsored by the Texas Livestock Auction Market Association and the Texas A & M College System and will be conducted by Miller's department.

The Board of Directors of the Auction Association will hold their mid-year meeting, beinning at 4 p.m. on August 8. Miller said this would be an open meeting and that all auction market operators of the State are invited to attend.

The first session of the conference on August 9 is scheduled for the MSC, beginning at 9 a.m. and adjournment is set for 5 p.m. Said Miller.

Representatives of the Auction Association who met with A&M System personnel to plan the conference included C. D. McEver, president of the Association, Austin; D. S. Buchanan, Eastland; Oris Reynolds, Abilene and Grover Lee, Strawn.

CENTRAL TEXAS Families Live Better Because of ALCOA WRAP

Alcoa Wrap is a good will ambassador for all products of Alcoa Aluminum.

Alcoa Wrap goes into homes throughout the country, making lasting friends for the Alcoa label, wherever it appears. Growing confidence in Alcoa Wrap's sign of the double-triangle has helped to build greater sales for all Alcoa products.

As Alcoa Wrap's success grows, the success of all other Alcoa Aluminum products is stimulated. In turn, Alcoans and their neighbors enjoy greater job security, better living for their families, and continuing prosperity for the community.

When you use Alcoa Wrap and get others to use it—remember that you are helping to increase consumption of many other aluminum products as well. That helps stimulate business throughout this entire area. The whole community benefits when Alcoans and their neighbors insist on Alcoa Wrap wherever they shop.

Texas Representative

Tumlinson At Education Meet

SALT LAKE CITY — More than 250 Farm Bureau leaders in the Western half of the United States discussed major school problems with some of the nation's top authorities on education in a four-day conference here. O. G. Tumlinson, President of the Milam County Farm Bureau, was one of the representatives from the Texas Farm Bureau.

The conference in the Union Building on the campus of the University of Utah opened July 19th, and ended July 22nd. Similar conference, for Farm Bureau leaders of the eastern half of the nation, was held in late June at Columbus, Ohio.

Both conferences were sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation the nation's largest general farm organization with a membership of more than 1½ million farm families.

W. Cleon Skousen, Chief of Police Salt Lake City, who is author of "The Naked Communist," spoke at the opening general session on the subject "Today's Challenge in Education."

Charles B. Shuman of Sullivan, Illinois, American Farm Bureau Federation president, keynoted the conference and set fourth its objectives in the morning session of July 20th.

Some of the other national education figures on the conference program were Michael Kolivosky, Academic Dean, Hillsdale College in Michigan; Dr. James Koerner, executive secretary, Council for Basic Education, Washington, D. C. Mr. John J. Scanlon, program associate, The Ford Foundation; Lloyd Andrews, superintendent of public instruction, State of Washington; W. A. Shannon, executive director, National School Boards Association, Evanston, Illinois; Roger A. Freeman, vice president, Institute for Social Science Research, Washington, D. C.; and Dr. Elbie L. Gann, executive assistant to Commissioner of Education, Denver Colorado.

Workshop session were held morning, afternoon, and night of Monday and Tuesday, July 20 and 21, and in the morning of the final day Wednesday, July 22.

The eight workshop discussion areas included:

Education — for what?
Education — in what kind of buildings?
School units — how big?
What to teach?
Education — Who pays how much?
Education — Who controls?
Teachers as key in quality education,
Education — What's new and good?

The conference workshop groups developed suggested procedures for state and local Farm Bureau directed at helping to get hold of and help solve education problems in the various subject areas. State and county units will develope programs in follow-up activities.
